LIVE BROADCAST ON TRACKWRESTLING (IN U.S. MARKET)
The U.S. will send a talented team of men’s freestyle wrestlers to compete at the UWW Junior World Championships in Tallinn, Estonia next week. The UWW Junior World age-group includes athletes who are 17-20 years old.

All 10 of the U.S. team members earned their spots on the team with victories at the 2019 UWW Junior World Team Trials in Raleigh, N.C. in May.

The U.S. team is led by 2018 Junior World silver medalist and Trials in Raleigh, N.C. in May.

The U.S. team includes two other past age-group World medalists, 2016 Cadet World silver medalist Vitali Arujau (Syosset, N.Y./Finger Lakes WC) at 57 kg/125.5 lbs. and 2016 Cadet World bronze medalist David Carr (Canton, Ohio (Titan Mercury WC/Cyclone WC) at 74 kg/163 lbs. Arujau was fourth at the 2019 NCAA Championships as a freshman at Cornell University, and also placed an impressive fourth at the 2019 U.S. Senior Nationals in men’s freestyle. He won the 2018 U23 World Team Trials. Arujau captured four New York state high school titles for Syosset High School, and was a Cadet Nationals freestyle champion.

Carr won a bronze medal at the Senior-level Granna Cup in Cuba this winter, while taking a redshirt year at Iowa State. He won USA Wrestling age-group national titles at the UWW Cadet, Junior and UWW Junior levels. Carr won four Ohio state titles for Massillon Perry High School.

Both Arujau and Carr are the sons of Olympic wrestling medalists. Vitaly’s father Vougar Orudjev was a 1996 Olympic bronze medalist and a two-time World champion for the Soviet Union. David’s father Nate won a 1988 Olympic bronze medal for the United States, and won three NCAA titles for Iowa State.

There are two EAP athletes on the 2019 UWW Junior World Team, as Brooks is joined by Gabriel Tagg (Mayfield Heights, Ohio/EAP) at 61 kg/134 lbs. Tagg, a 2018 Ohio state high school champion and two-time state runner-up for Brecksville-Broadview Heights High School, gave up his senior year of high school competition to join the EAP program at the USOPTC. He won a gold at the Senior-level Flatz Open in Austria this summer. Tagg was named Outstanding Wrestler at the UWW Junior Nationals in Las Vegas in April.

Another wrestler with previous international experience on the team is Tanner Sloan (Alburnett, Iowa/Jackrabbit WC) at 97 kg/213.75 lbs., who won a silver medal at the 2019 Pan American Junior Championships in freestyle. Sloan was second at the 2019 Midlands Championships while taking his redshirt year at South Dakota State. He won two Iowa state titles for Alburnett High School.

All 10 of the U.S. Junior World Team members are either competing for an NCAA Div. I wrestling team, or are incoming freshmen for an NCAA Div. I program.

Among this group is heavyweight Mason Parris (Lawrenceburg, Ind./Cliff Keen WC), who was an NCAA qualifier for Michigan this season as a true freshman. Parris, who won three Indiana state titles for Lawrenceburg High School, came out of redshirt for the Wolverines this year.

There are two members of the 2019 U.S. Junior World Team who compete for Northwestern University, Yahya Thomas (Chicago, Ill./Wildcat WC/Chicago RTC) at 65 kg/143 lbs. and Lucas Davison (Chesterton, Ind./Wildcat WC/Chicago RTC) at 92 kg/202 lbs. Both placed third at the 2018 Midlands Championships. Thomas competed for Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago, while Davison was a state champion for Chesterton High School in Indiana.

The other NCAA Div. I wrestlers who made the Junior World Team were Minnesota’s Brayton Lee (Brownsburg, Ind./Minnesota RTC) at 70 kg/154 lbs. and NC State’s Trent Hidlay (Lewistown, Pa./Wolfpack WC) at 86 kg/189 lbs.

Lee, who won the UWW Junior World Team Trials after taking second at the UWW Junior Nationals, was a 2018 Junior Nationals champion in Fargo. He won three state high school titles for Brownsburg High School in Indiana.

Hidlay was a two-time Pennsylvania state champion for Mifflin County High School. He was a 2017 Junior Nationals finalist in both freestyle and Greco-Roman.

With three past age-group World Team members, and one wrestler who has competed at an age-group Pan American Championships, this team has six team members who do not have World or Continental international experience. However, all have been successful in USA Wrestling’s age-group national tournaments, are affiliated with successful NCAA Div. I programs and have been active in the international styles for many years.

Cadet World champ Kilty among five World medalists on tough U.S. women’s Junior World Team

There are two ways to describe the 2019 U.S. Junior World Team in women’s freestyle that will compete at the UWW Junior World Championships in Tallinn, Estonia next week. Experienced. Talented.

- Five of the team members, which is half of the team, have won a total of nine age-group World medals for Team USA
- Nine of the 10 team members have competed in a past U.S. age-group World Championships
- The one who has not been to a World Championships has won Pan American medals and Senior international events
- Three of the team members are on the current Senior Women’s National Team, and three others were on last year’s Senior Women’s National Team. One made the last two Senior Women’s National Teams.

Leading the team effort is 2018 Cadet World champion and three-time age-group World medalist Macey Kilty (Stratford, Wis./Sunkist Kids) at 65 kg/143 lbs. Kilty was also a 2018 Junior World silver medalist and a 2016 Cadet World bronze medalist. Kilty is a member of the Senior Women’s National Team, at No. 3 on the ladder. She is currently an Elite Accelerator Program (EAP) athlete at the U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. She has won numerous USA Wrestling age-group national titles during her career.

Two-time age-group World medalist on the roster are Alleida Martinez (Selma, Calif./Titan Mercury WC) at 50 kg/110 lbs. and Alara Boyd (Yorktown, Ind./CIA at 62 kg/136.5 lbs.

Martinez was a 2015 Cadet World silver medalist and 2016 Cadet World bronze medalist. Martinez won a 2019 WCWA National title and a 2019 NAIA National Invitational title as a freshman for Menlo College. She won four California state titles for Selma High School. He boasts four Fargo national titles (two as a Junior and two as a Cadet).

2017 Cadet World champion and 2018 Junior World bronze medalist Cohlton Schultz (Parker, Colo./Sunkist Kids/EAP) leads the 2019 U.S. Greco-Roman World Team at the UWW Junior World Championships in Tallinn, Estonia next week.

The UWW Junior World age-group includes athletes who are 17-20 years old. All 10 team members earned their spots with victories at the UWW Junior Greco-Roman Nationals in April.

Schultz will be competing in his sixth age-group World Championships for Team USA. He will be joined by three other teammates who have competed in past age-group World Championship competition.

This will be Schultz’ third Junior World Team, also competing in 2017 and 2018. He competed on two Cadet World Teams (2016 and 2017) and the 2018 U23 World Team. Schultz wrestled Greco-Roman in all six of these competitions.

He made his mark on the Senior level this year, placing second behind Adam Coon in Final X and winning the Senior World Team Trials Challenge Tournament. A four-time Colorado state champion for Ponderosa High School, Schultz is going into his freshman year at Arizona State.

Competing in his third age-group World Championships is Peyton Omania (Concord, Calif./Michigan State/CYC) at 67 kg/147 lbs. Omania was a teammate of Schultz on the 2018 U.S. Junior World Team, and also competed in the 2016 Cadet World Championships, both in Greco-Roman. Omania was a 2018 Junior Nationals champion and 2017 Junior Nationals runner-up in Greco-Roman. He enters his redshirt freshman year at Michigan State.

Another member of the 2018 U.S. Junior World Team who returns is Alston Nutter (Fennimore, Wis./Sunkist Kids/NMU-OTS) at 63 kg/139 lbs. Nutter competes for the Northern Michigan University – Olympic Training Site (NMU-OTS) program at Northern Michigan. He was a 2017 Junior Nationals champion and 2017 Junior Nationals runner-up in Greco-Roman. He enters his redshirt freshman year at Michigan State.

Dylan Ragusin (Elk Grove Village, Ill./Izzy Style), a 2017 U.S. Cadet World Team member, will compete at 55 kg/121 lbs. Ragusin won three Cadet National titles in his career, two in Greco-Roman and one in freestyle. A 2019 Illinois state champion for Montini Catholic High School, Ragusin is a rising freshman at Stanford.

Ragusin joins another Stanford wrestler on the roster, redshirt freshman Tyler Eischens (Anoka, Minn./Stanford/California RTC) at 72 kg/158 lbs. Eischens was a runner-up in Greco-Roman at the 2018 Junior Nationals and 2016 Cadet Nationals. He won six All-American honors at Fargo Nationals events while in high school, and a 2017 Minnesota state high school champion for Anoka High School.

Two Michigan State wrestlers will compete in Tallinn, as Cameron Caffey (Carbondale, Ill./Michigan State) will wrestle at 87 kg/191.5 lbs., joining Omania on the team. Caffey was a 2018 Pan American Junior champion in both freestyle and Greco-Roman. A 2017 Junior Nationals runner-up in Greco-Roman, Caffey was a 2017 Illinois state champion for Carbondale High School.

There are two NMU-OTS athletes on this team, Nutter and Mason Hartshorn (Antioch, Calif./NMU-OTS) at 60 kg/132 lbs. Hartshorn was also second in the 2018 UWW Junior Nationals.

One of the most experienced athletes on the team is Nicholas Boykin (Colorado Springs, Colo./Sunkist Kids/OTC), who competes at 97 kg/213 lbs. Boykin is a resident athlete at the U.S. Olympic and Paralympic Training Center (USOPTC) in Colorado Springs, Colo. He has been a placewinner in international events in Sweden, Croatia, Austria and Cuba. Boykin won three Tennessee state titles for Riverdale High School before moving to the USOPTC.

Another NCAA Div. I wrestler on the team is Illinois redshirt freshman Zachary Braunagel (O’Fallon, Ill./Illinois RTC) at 82 kg/180.5 lbs. Braunagel was a 2018 Junior Nationals champion in Greco-Roman, and boasts five All-American honors from Fargo. He also added a 2019 Pan American Junior title in Greco-Roman. Braunagel won two Illinois state titles for Althoff Catholic High School, before joining the Illinois program last year.

An incoming freshman for Div. I Campbell University, Jack Ervien (Bonny Lake, Wash./Takedown Express WC), holds down the spot at 77 kg/169.5 lbs. Ervien powered through a strong field at the UWW Junior Nationals in Las Vegas in April. Ervien was a 2019 Washington state high school runner-up last year for White River High School.

Greco-Roman is the final style contested at Junior World Championships, with three days of competition from August 16-18. Each weight class will compete over two days, with semifinals on the first day and medal matches on the second day.

Women’s Freestyle

There are two assigned coaches for the U.S. Junior World Women’s Freestyle Team in Tallinn, Jacque Davis and Chad Shilson.

Davis currently works as the Director of Girls Development with Boston Youth Wrestling, as well as a coach and leader with Beat the Streets Providence, working with girls in both cities. She is a driving force in the growth of women’s wrestling in New England.

She served five years as the Director of Girls Development for Beat the Streets New York, building a nationally respected program that included coaching numerous USA Wrestling All-Americans, while also helping build girls wrestling in New York City high schools and middle schools.

Davis has coached USA Wrestling teams in international competition, including posts with age-group World and Pan American teams, as well as international tour teams. She was the first woman to be named Director and National Team Coach for New York State. She also served on USA Wrestling Women’s Age-Group Council.

She wrestled for Menlo College and Santa Rosa High School in California, Davis has won major coaching awards, including USA Wrestling Women’s Developmental Coach of the Year and the Dan Gable "America Needs Wrestling" Award.

Shilson has previously been an assigned women’s coach for the 2018 Cadet World Championships and the 2017 Cadet Pan American Championships. He has also been a personal coach on the U.S. staff for the 2019 Junior Pan American Championships, the 2017 Cadet World Championships and the 2016 Cadet Pan American Championships. He has also coached U.S. tour teams to the 2018 Klippan Lady Open in Sweden, and the Yoshida Cup in Japan in both 2017 and 2018. He has also coached at over 30 USA Wrestling National Team camps.

Shilson has served as the women’s director for Minnesota USA Wrestling and the girls/women coach for the Minnesota Storm since 2009. He has been a volunteer coach at the high school level in Minnesota for more than 20 years. In 2009, he was a volunteer assistant men’s coach at his alma mater Augsburg University, and will serve as a volunteer assistant coach for Augsburg’s varsity women’s program, which launches in 2019-2020.

He has won 15 Masters National wrestling titles within USA Wrestling, and was a varsity wrestler at Augsburg. Shilson has also run 134 marathons and/or ultra-marathons.
Alongside them will be USA Wrestling Women’s Freestyle National Development Coach Jessica Medina, who joined the staff in early 2019.

Medina joined the USA Wrestling staff after serving as Ferrum’s women’s wrestling head coach for two seasons. Medina also coached for Beat the Streets Philadelphia, as well as at Montini Catholic High School in Illinois. She coached Team California at the Junior/16U Nationals as well.

Also a former USOPTC resident athlete, Medina was a six-time U.S. Senior National Team member and 2009 and 2010 Senior World Team member. She also won a 2006 Junior World bronze medal. Medina won two WCWA national titles for the University of the Cumberlands.

Greco-Roman

The assigned coach for the Junior World Men’s Greco-Roman Team is Nate Engel, who is in his second season as a member of the Stanford University coaching staff, serving as the volunteer coach. Engel is also the Director of the California Regional Training Center program. He was previously an assistant coach for the U.S. Naval Academy from 2014-18.

Engel served as a coach with the 2018 U.S. Junior Greco World Team at the Junior World Championships in Slovakia.

Engel was a two-time National Team member in Greco-Roman and a top athlete on the national circuit. He pursued Greco-Roman full-time at Northern Michigan, then became a member of the U.S. Army WCAP program. Engel was the runner-up at the 2013 World Team Trials. He won the 2012 Haparanda Cup in Sweden and took silver at the 2013 Haavisto Tournament in Finland. He was also the Maccabiah Games Champion in both Freestyle and Greco-Roman at 55 kg in 2013, while taking home two bronze medals in 2017.

Working with Engel is Gary Mayabb, USA Wrestling’s Manager of Greco-Roman Programs. Mayabb’s position focuses on improving USA Wrestling’s performance in Greco-Roman wrestling at all levels while growing the sport in the United States.

He was a successful high school coach in Missouri, developing champion teams and athletes at Staley High School, Oak Park High School and Belton High School. One of the best developmental coaches in the country, Mayabb has tons of experience, coaching nearly 15 age-group World Teams over the years. He was the Greco-Roman coach for Missouri USA Wrestling for 30 years.

As an athlete, he was a 1990 U.S. Open runner-up in Greco-Roman, and qualified to compete in four U.S. Olympic Team Trials series (1980, 1984, 1988 and 1992). In college, he was a two-time captain for the wrestling team at the University of Central Missouri, where he was an NCAA qualifier and the MIAA Conference Most Outstanding Wrestler in 1983.
